27 Students Rate Places On Pro Merito List

On November 5, 1953, the Pro Merito Society held its first meeting. The members are those who have obtained an average of 85% or better during their first three years of high school. The members are named at the beginning of their senior year and at the end of the first semester. Membership does not become permanent until the end of the senior year, when certificates of membership in the state Pro Merito Society are presented at commencement.

The members this year elected Ralph D'Amato as their president and Cecily Danforth as secretary. Special passes were issued which allow these members to go without the traditional passes. The twenty-seven members are: Lucia Alfano, Jonathan Anderson, Lois Bontempo, Barbara Cheney, Ralph D'Amato, Cecily Danforth, Joan De Mars, Doris Grant, Adrienne Grasso, Elizabeth Grecco, Nancy Hallock, Elaine Jones, Roger LeClerc, Lois Lindblad, Anthony Liquori, Theresa Morassi, Shirley Mutti, Carol Pallo, Judith Peterson, Mary Pond, Frances Radwilowicz, Nancy Richardson, Donaldine Roos, John Spinetti, Mathew Sulborski, Frances Willard, and Ann Zucco.

Juniors, Seniors Place High in Economy Run

On Tuesday, November 10, awards were presented to the winners of the recent Economy Run at a banquet held at the Granger School.

The run was held on October 31, with 29 contestants starting the 92 mile course at approximately 8:45 a. m. The cars were checked and the gas tanks filled before leaving the starting point—Feeding Hills Center.

The winners were as follows:

Overdrive: 1st place, Jerome Doolittle; 2nd place, Richard Coburn; 3rd place, Frank Moruzzi; 4th place, Linda Knighton. Standard: 1st place, John Melanson (Westfield); 2nd place, Robert Landers; 3rd place,

AGAWAM WINS SIX IN ROW; DEFEAT WEST SIDE, 34-21

By Don Hastings

The seven horsemen and 4 ponies of Agawam High thrilled more than 3500 fans with a hard earned victory over West Springfield, 34-21. It was Agawam's sixth straight win. The victory also continued the supremacy of the Brownies over the Terriers. It was Agawam's 22d victory against only 6 losses in the Agawam-West Side series. There have been two ties.

At the annual rally the preceding night, the Agawam cheerleaders out-tugged the West Side cheerleaders in the tug-of-war. According to tradition the Brownies were favored to win.

The game had its thrills right from the opening gun. In the first quarter

Agawam scored a touchdown on a pass from P. Cardone to Bobby "Merk", but an offside penalty called it back. The first period ended with a double zero on the scoreboard.

The Terriers started their "fumblyblitis" in the second period. Doug Neilson recovered one of the bobbles near midfield early in the second quarter. Three plays later Banville ripped 30 yards through the middle of the Terrier line for the first score. A pass from P. Cardone to Krygowski added the extra point. Bob Anderson recovered a fumble on the Terrier's 38 after the kickoff follow-

Five Scholarships To Be Presented

The annual tag day for the Benjamin J. Phelps Scholarship Drive was held Thursday, October 22, and Friday, October 23. This is the sixth year this drive has been held. Its purpose is to raise money for a scholarship fund.

Members of the senior class planning to further their education may apply for one of these scholarships.

On Thursday afternoon approximately sixty junior high school students assisted in this campaign by carrying door to door campaign in Agawam, asking citizens to contribute to this worthy cause.

Through each year's generous response, many Agawam students have been given a start toward a college education or a nursing career. Last year's recipients were Marlyn Draghetto, Lucille Ferrarini, Joseph Sliech, Janet Willard, and Rosemary McMahon. Three of these are attending State Teachers College, one Boston Art School, and one St. Michaels College.

Co-chairmen for the Agawam drive of the Agawam-West Springfield P.T.A. council were Miss Mary McDowell and Mr. Raymond E. Harris.

At this time I wish to thank all who contributed to raise the amount of $588, making it possible to help at least five worthy students of the class of '54" in furthering their education.

Curtain Going Up For Operetta

Well, here we are at the operetta and there certainly is a large showing of Agawamites here tonight. Miss Hayes looks very stunning as she waits for the curtain to go up. I can see Sandra Kelley sitting out front. She is a prompter along with Linda Knighton, Carlo Imelio, and Earl Frieniere. The usherettes, looking very smart, and busy showing the crowd to their seats while backstage there is a considerable amount of activity as the backstage crew scurries to and fro with essential last minute preparations. Everything is quiet now—then the band begins and the curtain rises.

First to enter is the Captain (Vaughan Kelley). Ralph (John Cardone) is already on stage; he is one of the romantic lovers who, as you will see, falls in love with Josephine (Judy Peterson).

Well, that's how it looks from here—come tonight and see for yourself how it turns out. Love and suspense combined with the colorful settings and gay songs will make this a grand operetta.

This year on December 4th, at the high school, the Junior Class will present the annual Junior Cabaret. The Cabaret is one of the most important affairs of the school year, and the Class of '55 is working exceptionally hard to make this one the best yet. The general chairman of the dance is Alice Harpin. Chairmen of the various committees are: Refreshments, Arlene Egbert; publicity and tickets, John Bumsted; decorations, Jean Brezinski; music, Nino Moretti; entertainment, Chester Nicora, and invitations, Richard Thomas. Each of the chairmen has an excellent committee to carry on their respective duties.

One of the important parts of the Cabaret will be the decorations. The decorations committee, working around this year's theme, "Winter Fantasy," is doing a wonderful job. Everyone attending the Cabaret will agree that their labors have not been in vain.

Refreshments this year will be cake and punch, which will be provided by the members of the class. No dance is complete without refreshments, and these should prove excellent.

The music committee has decided that music will be furnished by Arnie Morange and his orchestra.

Something which is apt to be overlooked as an integral part of every good dance is the people attending it. This time it's up to you fellows to do the inviting. Tickets are only $1.50 per couple and may be purchased from Carole Sulborski, room 15; Lynne Higgins, room 25; and Beverly Fuller, room 24.

Make sure you don't miss an exciting evening of fun. Get your tickets now!

EDITORIAL

Thursday, November 26, Thanksgiving Day—a legal holiday set aside for the giving of thanks. Well that's a laugh. What have we to be thankful for? Inflation threatens depression, Communism is overthrowing many Asiatic and European nations, our national debt soars higher and higher, and right here in town the high taxes and crowded schools with limited facilities are nothing to be thankful for.

Now back in 1621 at the first Thanksgiving Day they really had something to be grateful for. They had a new and free country, and—well, other things I guess. Let's see what did they really give thanks for. Their food was scarce and of a limited variety, their homes were cold, crude cabins, they were cut off from civilization by dense woods and hostile Indians. They had no electricity, no means of communication, only crude methods of transportation, and none of the modern conveniences that we would be lost without; yet, still they gathered together and gave thanks to God for the bare necessities that they did have.

Have we more or less to be thankful for?

Prices are high, but quantities and qualities are numerous. Our country is free from Communist aggression and striving to free other countries; the national debt is high, but it can and will be paid by our efficient government. As for the crowded schools, the future-minded citizens of our town have given their consent for the appropriation of funds for a much needed new high school.

These are only a few of the blessings which are bestowed on us by the Almighty Lord. Think it over. When were we ever better off than we are now? Then what is there not to be thankful for this Thanksgiving Day—1953?

Dafinations

Students Eligible For Scholastic Art Awards

For the fourth year, the Boston Globe is to be the sponsor for the Massachusetts Scholastic Art Award competition. This is the regional exhibit run in conjunction with the national art competition sponsored by Scholastic Magazines.

Any student from grades seven through twelve is invited to enter the Massachusetts exhibit. Gold key winners at the Massachusetts exhibit will have their work entered in the national competition at Pittsburg.

Almost any type of art work can be entered as the classes vary from oils to inks, from three dimensional art to art inspired by music, and from photography to crafts.

Mrs. Cassidy notified the Mirror that any student wishing to enter may see her for information, materials, and guidance in preparing an entry. Entries are due January 27 at the Globe.

This is a chance for anyone to win honors or tuition scholarships. Incidentally, Massachusetts won 30 awards including three scholarships at Pittsburg last year. This is certainly an admirable record. Let's strive to maintain our record this year.

ALUMNI

We're still hearing about our great quarterback, Tommy Knight '49, who has been playing a tremendous game of football up at Amherst College. Tommy, a senior this year, led Amherst to an undefeated season.

We see that Pauline Placido, who works at the Third National Bank, is still an ardent rooter at our football games. Great alumni spirit, Paulie?

Nancy (Pond) Hastings '50, was chosen captain of the drill team at the University of Mass. Juddy Hastings '50, is now serving in Korea. We hear that Jim Cheney has received his corporal stripe in the Marine Reserves.

Norm Marieb '52, is majoring in dentistry at Tufts College, while Neil Lawson '53, is doing well at the University of Vermont. Dick August has recently been chosen as athletic director of his dorm at Babson Institute.

At this time the Mirror wishes to extend its congratulations to the Agawam newlyweds, Frances Cirillo '51, and Bruce Anderson; Bobbie Ann Cameron '52, and Eddie LaRiviere; Theresa Paro '49, and Felix Losito; Stuart Kibbe '52, and Shirley Carr.

ing the touchdown. A few plays later a pass from Cardone to Bob "Merk" was good for the second score. P. Cardone then rushed for the extra point. West Side came battling back after the kickoff and drove down to within the 10-yard line, a pitchout from Haslam to LaBranche put the ball across the goal line. A rush by Rolandini added the point. The half ended, 14-7, Agawam's favor.

In the third period Agawam recovered two West Side fumbles within the West Side 30. Passes from Cardone to Banville and Krygowski gave Agawam touchdowns after each recovery. The score read 27-7, Agawam, at the end of 3 periods.

The fourth period was marked by stunning acrias on both sides. LaBranche's tosses kept West Side in the game, while a perfect toss by J. O'Keefe put the game on ice. Rolandini and Klein scored West Side's final score, while Bobby "Merk" scored the last Brownie tally.

Praise was given all around to the jubilant Brownies. They all played hard, and no one was the star alone. Everyone felt all had given their best, and the defeat was nothing to be sorry about.

Tri-Hi-Y

One of the first clubs which the Agawam High School students organized was Tri-Hi-Y. Nineteen years ago, in 1934, the first meeting of the club was held and a member named Lillian Ardizoni was elected president. Our own Miss Phelps was also president of the club while a student here.

The purpose of the club was established to create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian living in the home, the school, and the community.

Members of the school club now hold both National and State memberships. All Tri-Hi-Y clubs are affiliated with the Y.M.C.A., and our own club holds its affiliation with the West Springfield Community Y. Membership to the West Side Y. is open to the Tri-Hi-Y girls at a reduced rate. The third Tuesday of each month is reserved as "Y Night," at which time the girls may participate in the activities offered by the West Springfield Y.M.C.A.

Another highlight of this active club is the annual conference, held each year in a New England city, at which time all clubs send representatives. Included at this conference are both a banquet and dance, and representatives are lodged at various homes in the city of the conference. The coming conference should be an event that all members will anticipate attending!

The Agawam Tri-Hi-Y held two well-planned meetings during the month of October. At the first meeting on October 13, a group of Juniors put on three interesting skits on: Manners, letter writing, theater manners, and table manners.

On October 17, the annual Tri-Hi-Y Halloween party was held in the Agawam High School auditorium, at which time the Junior members were initiated. Representing the Junior class at the initiation were terrified Theresa Sliech, and Anita Rosso, whose job it was to dissect a cat? Entertainment at the party included many games and the initiation program, which kept all who attended interested and amused. Refreshments were also served.

I.R.C.

The International Relations Club was organized in 1935 by a small group of older students who were especially interested in the international situation because of the growing tension in the world preceding World War II. The club was reorganized in 1942 with membership open to the three upper classes.

Camera Club

The Agawam Camera Club held several meetings during the month of October. Officers elected for this year were: President, Amber Wolcott, and secretary-treasurer, Marion Templeman. At the meetings members have gained practice in developing their own pictures. One of the club members, Jerry Doolittle, has turned this art into thriving business since the Sadie Hawkins dance, where he took and developed several excellent shots of the enthusiastic crowd. Jerry's photos were on display in the upper corridor of our school; but better beware, kids—he might turn into a fiend!

Brownies Belt St. Patrick's, 27-6

By Don Hastings

October 17—Our "Battlin' Brownies" went on from an early lead to beat St. Patrick's High School of Watertown, Mass., at Memorial Field before 1500 football fans.

St. Pat's took the opening kick-off and drove 89 yards for the first score of the game. The last 40 yards were covered by a pass from Ambrose to Cotton. The try for the extra point was stopped.

Agawam came right back for a score of their own. The Brownies drove on the ground to St. Pat's 37 yard line. There Phil Cardone lofted a perfect pass to Bobby "Merk," who went unmolested for the score. Phil Cardone then drove over for the extra point to put Agawam ahead to stay, 7-6.

Before the first period ended, Andy Anderson recovered a St. Pat's fumble on their 23 yard line. Agawam then drove to the two. Bobby "Merk" again went over from there. Banville added the extra point to make the score 14-6. The score remained that way until the fourth quarter.

Late in the third period Joe Pisano intercepted a St. Pat's pass on their 20 yard line. Early in the fourth quarter Phil Cardone passed to the 3 yard line. Banville went through the middle of the line for the touchdown. The Brownies then missed the PAT.

On the first play following the kickoff after Agawam's touchdown, the big Brownie line broke through to block and catch an Ambrose pass. Neilson picked off the blocked pass on St. Pat's 18 yard line. A pretty pass play from Phil Cardone to Anderson put the ball on St. Pat's 1 yard line. Jim O'Keefe went over for the touchdown, a pass from P. Cardone to Bobby "Merk" ended the scoring with Agawam ahead, 27-6, for the extra point.

After the final whistle blew, everyone felt that Agawam had earned their third straight victory. Praise was given all around to the "Battlin' Brownies." For St. Patrick's it was their first defeat in 11 games.

Agawam Again Defies Hoople

By Roger Le Clerc

For the second time in as many games, the Brownies were picked by the "Peerless Prognosticator" to go down to defeat. But the Brownies, full of fight and determination, after trailing at the end of the first half by a score of 6 to 0, came roaring back with a touchdown and the extra point to win, 7 to 6.

Greenfield drew first blood on a 70 yard pass play from QB Butch Peters to HB Ed. Hayes. After this TD in the first period, Greenfield was held scoreless for the rest of the game. They found it very difficult to penetrate Agawam's forward wall of Neilson, Jabry, Anderson, Cardone and Krygowski, but when they did, there was DeGeorge and T. O'Keefe to stop them.

The Brownies scored their TD in the last period after taking a Greenfield punt on the Greenfield 43 yard line. Banville, the Brownies fleet-footed halfback, broke through a huge gap in the Greenfield line and took the pigskin down to the nine yard line. Three plays later he crashed over for the TD. Mercadante was successful in smacking the line for the important extra point.

Agawam cut off a late rally by Greenfield as they knocked down two passes in the end zone, one by Bobby "Merk," and the other by Jim O'Keefe. Agawam took over and was still in possession of the ball when time ran out.

For an Agawam team that played with 11 brains and 10 bodies—because of the injury to P. Cardone—it was a well earned and hard fought battle right down to the end.

Agawam Blanks Turners Falls

By Larry Gallerani

The game with Turners, having been postponed from Saturday because of the weather, forced the battling Brownies to travel to Turners the following Monday. The Brownies handed the Indians their fifth defeat in seven starts, the victory being Agawam's fifth in five games.

The Brownies put on a dazzling running display with out fleet backs, Bob "Merk," Rollie Banville, Phil Cardone, "Turk" Bruno, Bill Munsell and Rick Stahle carrying the ball all over the field.

The first period was scoreless but the Brownies made their presence known in the second period. At the beginning of this TD spangled quarter "Merk" went over the goal line and then added the extra point putting Agawam ahead 7-0. A few minutes later Mercadante, on a 21-yard run, again crossed the goal line. Phil Cardone picked up the extra point. Krygowski recovering a fumble on Turners' nine yard line, paved the way for Agawam. Two plays later, Jim O'Keefe bulled over for Agawam's third TD. Phil Cardone picked up his second point and as the first quarter ended Agawam led 21-0.

Doug Neilson, one of the outstanding linemen, blocked a Turners' punt on their 30 yard line. Two plays later Agawam again scored. This time the pigskin was carried over by Rollie Banville; Phil Cardone went across for the extra point, making the score 28-0.

A minute later, Doug Neilson again blocked a TF punt, putting the ball on Turners' 12 yard line. Phil Cardone then brought Agawam another TD on two plays. John Cardone then carried the ball over for the PAT. Score at this point, 35-0. Before the end of the fourth quarter Agawam took over on Turners' 20. Bill Munsell pulled off two plays, the second going into the end zone. Bruno then carried the ball for the extra point to bring the score to 42-0.

Much praise must be given to our linemen Roger LeClerc, Chet Krygowski, John Cardone, Andy Anderson, Doug Neilson and the rest who play where the games are won or lost; these, the unsung heroes of football.

THE DEATH OF JULIUS CAESAR OR THEY GOT ME PAL

Announcer: The story you are about to hear is true. Only the names have been changed to protect the actors.

My name is John Thursday. My parents' names are Thursday, too. I'm a cop. We were working the day watch out of homicide. My partner's Frank Hill; the boss is Captain Phelps. It was 8:10 a.m. We were just going to flip to see who'd go out and rifle the coke machine when the phone rang.

Frank: I'll get, John.

John: You get it, Frank.

Frank: Hello, are you there? Um....um...um..! Listen to this, John. We've just received word that twenty assassins have just Julius Caesar in the Forum. There was a big crowd there.

John: I can see this is going to be one of our most baffling cases.

We hopped in a squad car and took off. The time was now 8:14. I knew because Guy Lombardo had just finished four choruses of the Minute Waltz on the police radio. Ten minutes later we arrived at the scene of the crime. It was pretty gooey. The place was deserted, except for the body. I guess that was the only thing that didn't have a place to go. We put in a call to the chief, and he sent out a crew from latent fingerprints. They dusted the place. It's got lousy janitors.

Frank: Whad d' you think, John?

John: We'll have to wait for a break.

We started back for the office. I asked Frank a question.

John: Why do you always say "are you there?" when you answer the phone?

Frank: Simple. If you're not there, why go on with the conversation.

We went back to the office and waited. 3:15. We received word that there was a man who wanted to see us. I told them to send him in. They did. He was a large man who wore a convertible toga with the top down.

Art: Are you Sergeant Monday?

John: No sir, that's my day off. What do you want, Sir?

Art: My name is Artemidorus, but you can call me Arty.

John: Thank you, sir. My name is Thursday and this is my partner, Frank Hill.

Art: Do you spell that with an i or e?

Frank: What is it you wanted to see us about, sir?

Art: Oh that? It's just a little information I picked up.

Frank: Yes, sir:

Art: I know who killed Julius Ceasar.

This was the break we had been waiting for. We questioned the man and got his whole story. He had known the names of the conspirators, and had tried to warn Ceasar, but Ceasar wouldn't listen to him. He gave us the names. We sent them to R.N.I. to try to get a make on them, but they were all clean. Artemidorus told us the names of the leaders were Brutal and Crashup, but the actual killer was Sinner. We had no record on him, and figured he was a hood imported from Greece by the conspirators,

We went into action. Frank got out an A.P.B. and all points alarm on the names we had been given, and we checked out their known friends. Stakeouts were set on the apartments of Brutal and Crashup, but they escaped the net and blew town. Two weeks went by. It was April 2. I was in Bed when the phone rang.

Frank: Hello, John, this is Frank.
John: Hello, Frank, this is John.
Frank: One of the suspects has just been spotted down at the Coliseum watching the gladiators.
John: I'll be down in ten minutes.

I made it in nine minutes. I ran all the way. Frank was waiting at the entrance. A few minutes later we entered the Coliseum and went down to the front row, where our suspect was sitting.

Frank: Mister Sinner
Sinner: Yes?
Frank: We're police officers, sir, we'd like to talk to you, sir.
Sinner: What's it all about? I'm watching these games you know.
John: This'll just take a minute, sir. Will you please come with us?
Sinner: I don't see why I should. I'm an honest citizen, and there's no reason why I should be subjugated to this treatment!!!
John: Yes sir. Will you please come with us, and we'll get this whole thing straightened out. It'll just take a minute, sir.
Sinner: Well, all right, but you'd better make it quick. The main bout is coming on in a minute. It's the Mighty Ratface vs. Little Raccoon.
Frank: Yes, sir, will you please come along sir. It'll just take a minute sir.

We took him to the manager's office for questioning.

Sinner: Now what do you guys want? I got my rights, you know.
Frank: Where were you on March 15th?
Sinner: I refuse to answer on the grounds that it might tend to incriminate me. I don't say a word until I see my lawyer. I want my lawyer!
John: We've got witnesses that say they saw you in the Forum on that date.
Sinner: So maybe I was in the Forum. I got business there.
John: Was your business stabbing Caesar in the back?
Sinner: What are you guys talking about? I'm a respectable guy. Bookie for some of the biggest names in town. Where's Cicero? I want my lawyer.
Frank: Why don't you confess and save us a lot of trouble, sir?
Sinner: What d'you mean, confess it!!!
John: Look, Frank, let's not waste any more time. Get those witnesses on the phone.

Frank started to phone all the witnesses to come down and identify the suspect, but before he finished.....

Sinner: All right, put down the phone. I did it. But you've got to understand that I had a reason. People always thought they could walk all over me. When I was a baby they used to steal my lollipops. Well, Caesar tried to walk all over me. I guess I showed him. You know the first thing I did after I stabbed him? I walked over him.

He doesn't look like such a big shot now. I guess I showed him.

John: I guess you did. Call a squad car, Frank.

We took Sinner's confession and booked him on a charge of homicide.
Two and a half years passed. One day in the office.....

Frank: Say, John remember the Caesar case?

John: Yeah, why? You get a lead?

Frank: Police in Phillippi. They found both Brutal and Crashup.
Suicides, both of 'em.

John: It just goes to show that crime doesn't pay.

Announcer: On February 16, 43 B.C., trial was held in Inferior Court, Department E, state of Coma. In a moment the result of that trial. But first, here's John Thursday.

John: Hello, friends, this is John Thursday. Say, have you tried Physicians Cigarettes? I have, and they are milder. Besides, nine out of ten Arabian Camels recommend them.

Announcer: I.B. Sinner, convicted on one count of homicide. Homicide in the state of Coma is punishable by watching, for five years, the Howdy Doody Show.

He doesn't look like much a big shot now, I guess I should have known: I guess you did. Call a good one, Frank.

He took Stanley's confession and looked him on a charge of homicide.
Two and a half years ago. One day in the office.

Frank: Hey, John remember the Green case?

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.

John: I remember the Green case. I remember the Green case.
